

September 27, 2011

Dear Parent/Guardian:

The No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB) was designed to make changes in teaching and learning that will help increase academic achievement in our schools. The law requires that all schools receiving NCLB funds must inform parents of their right to ask schools about the qualifications of their child's teachers. Our school receives NCLB funding and we are happy to share this information with you at your request.

We believe that nothing is more important to your child's education at school than having a well-prepared and highly qualified teacher. The law requires that all teachers who teach in core content areas must meet a specific legal definition of "highly qualified." The legal definition of a "highly qualified teacher" has three parts. It states that the teacher must have the following: A four-year college degree, a regular teaching certificate/license, or proof of his/her knowledge in the subject they teach. We are extremely proud of the quality of the teaching staff at the Golden Door Charter School. All our regular teachers have college degrees and many have advanced degrees. The state of New Jersey has always required a teaching certificate/license for all teachers. In addition, every teacher continues learning through professional development activities and our teachers are evaluated each year to make sure that their teaching skills remain at the highest possible level.

Most teachers already meet this legal definition of highly qualified. Teachers in the state of New Jersey are required to meet this definition. To ensure that every child in every classroom has a highly qualified teacher, the state of New Jersey and Golden Door Charter School are working together to help teachers meet the requirements of the federal law by providing several options. Teachers may take a content Praxis test, or they can demonstrate their expertise through a college major in the content area. A highly qualified teacher knows what to teach, how to teach, and has a full understanding of the subject matter being taught. We believe that every teacher in our school is fully qualified and dedicated to teaching your child, and we will do everything possible to help our teachers who may not yet meet the legal definition required by the federal government.

I encourage you to support your child's education and communicate with your child's teacher(s) on a regular basis. For more information on NCLB, and the role of parents, please visit the United States Department of Education (USDE) Web site at www.ed.gov/nclb. By partnering, families and educators can provide your child with the best education possible.

Sincerely,

Brian Stiles, Chief School Administrator